

Privacy

Every time a user accesses a page of our website, and every time a file is downloaded, that information is stored in a log file.

The saved information is: name of the downloaded file, date and time of the download, quantity of data transmitted, whether or not the download was successful, IP address of the computer via which the enquiry reaches us. The data stored is evaluated for statistical purposes only and then deleted. The data serves purely to help us improve our website and there is no tracing of the data back to individual users. No information is passed on to third parties.

Any personal information you may be asked for when using our services is provided on a purely voluntary basis. Your personal details will be stored and processed in accordance with German data protection legislation.
